Look for decentralized models
Create creative model;
shared community of practice;
Steering Committee???
Mission/vision/Who benefits

A federation of creative communities that communicate needs across the planet.

Centralized vs decentralized. Use of LinkedIn? Communities of practice? Steering committee? Support for ongoing services?

I think the mission statement provided is a good starting point, but I think generating some example organizations as a models to be able to generate de-centralized models to branch off from.

Creating a model center for other to emulate

A federation of creative communities communicating the needs and accomplishments...

Facebook group or Slack channel for asynchronous collaboration, decentralized communication. Also, a provisional steering committee.

Federation

As a 501c3. Membership types vary based on needs of users

Most become model..UNESCO,,, NGO, IETA , ISO, Slime Mold Model

Capitalize on using other conferences for GCI meetings

Membership to keep the org business going

Leadership organization -- Advisory Board--

Periodic meetings Sponsorships Volunteers Student interns Mentorship's Board & executive director

Think about communication

Board, executive, membership. Volunteering is great but we are all very busy...

Memberships, like an elite society (belonging here is the cool thing to do). Make it very desirable

Structure, management, roles, volunteering
